Second Session of the Territorial Law Making Body of 1903.

THE SENATE—TWENTY-THIRD DAY.

(AFTERNOON SESSION)

Reassembled promptly on time. McCandless introduced an act to regulate the office of Superintendent of Public Works. Usual course.

Cecil Brown presented a petition from Henry Smith for the return of overpaid taxes. To Miscellaneous. Diekey introduced five new bills, said to be drawn by the Chief Justice. Passed first reading and to Printing. Woods gave notice to introduce a bill to permit the distillation of liquors.

The bill for additional salaries for Circuit Judges passed third reading after an amendment, but reducing to $500 for all circuits other than the first (Oahu).

Bill 68, providing for a tax on automobiles ($5) and on bicycles ($2) went over.

Bill 70, attachment of salaries of government beneficiaries, and Bill 73, amending the law reorganizing the Judiciary, both passed unanimously on third reading, the latter to go into effect May 1 next.

At 3:30 o'clock adjournment was taken.

THE HOUSE—TWENTY-THIRD DAY

On reassembling, instead of the County Bill being taken up for consideration, Andrade, from Judiciary committee, reported on Bill 5, relating to the drawing and impounding of grand and trial jurors, recommending its rejection and offered a substitute instead. The report with the bill, was read in both languages, at the end of which, it was referred back to the committee.

House and Senate Bills on second reading were gone through with and advanced, the report of the Judiciary committee being read with some of them as to recommendations and were either approved or referred. Two bills (37 and 50) were referred to Committee of the Whole.

The Speaker presented a petition, although out of order, from Wailuku residents praying for a $50,000 appropriation for a road from Wailuku to Kihui. This petition, he said, was delayed in transmission, but as this is the day for the presentation of petitions, he presented it, and if there was no objection, he would refer it to the Public Lands committee. There being no objection, it was so referred.

The House resolved itself into Committee of the Whole on the Emergency Bill (70), on which the committee had only reported progress and asked leave to sit again; Chillingworth in the chair.

Chillingworth, while the committee resolved to consider and to hear amendments proposed by Harris, of the Finance committee, left the chair, calling Kumalae to its charge, in order to move a reconsideration of the item relating to the arrest and detention of fugitives from justice, so as to have the same inserted. The reconsideration was granted.

Gandall called attention to what the newspapers had said, charging him with its defeat, and slandering him. He spoke at length, elsewhere referred to.

Beckley questioned whether Gandall was free to vote on this item, which may be used to secure the apprehension of his son-in-law Treasurer Wright, also a fugitive from justice, speaking at some length in support of the item. He said, in concluding, that Hawaiian-Americans were on trial, for they are in control in this House. He appealed to them in the cause of law and order to insert this item asked for by the Attorney General, as it may be used, if not passed, as a
